2. Chest

What to Wear: Shirt

Measure horizontally around your chest at nipple level, under your armpits, and over your shoulder blades. Ensure that you can just feel the tape on your chest. Don't overinflate your chest; stand normally and allow your index finger to fit between the tape and your chest.

This measurement is a body measurement and there will be an allowance added to it to make your jacket, the allowance will be added according to the fit that you chose.

15: Ankle

What to Wear: Trousers

Keep your leg straight and measure around your ankle. One tip is to measure the ankle width of some trousers you like the cut of. To do this simply lie them flat, measure one side and then double the measurement.

As a guide 14-17 inches can be construed as slim or tapered (be careful you can get your foot through though), 17-19 as standard, and 19+ as bootcut going to flared.

16: Waistcoat

What to Wear: Shirt

Measure from the bottom of your shirt collar to below your belt line. Even if you don't wish to have a waistcoat - please give the measurement a go...it helps us to make your jacket pattern too.
